DOC JOHNSON®

Doc Johnson was born in 1976 when I purchased a very small company that sold adult toys along with gag novelties and rubber fishing items. When I realized that adult toys had a huge demographic without any real central supplier, I renamed the company Doc Johnson and worked towards becoming America's most imminent producer of adult products. My mission was to create the most superior products on the market, while maintaining a solid culture of integrity and forthrightness. Keeping manufacturing in America was extremely important to me, as my small way of supporting the economy and the local community.

Since then, the Doc Johnson brand has grown and evolved. We started with a handful of employees, and now have a team of over 500 people in our factory in North Hollywood, California. The adult novelty industry has grown and evolved, but one theme that has remained constant at Doc Johnson is our strong commitment to American manufacturing. Today, we are the largest adult toy manufacturing company in the world with a facility that has six buildings that cater to every department from conception to shipping—and not only do we produce the majority of our products in America, but we also strive to create the most high-quality, innovative, and body friendly products on the market.

Our office culture supports teamwork and all of us at Doc Johnson take enormous pride in creating top quality products for Doc Johnson because we know that Doc Johnson represents American manufacturing—something that has been a source of pride and inspiration for all of us since our inception. As most companies continue to take their production overseas for cheap labor, I am proud to say that we at Doc Johnson are still bringing you premium, hand-crafted products that are Made in America.
